Basketball at its best in Ypsilanti

For the past two years, some of the best basketball in the state of Michigan has been played in Ypsilanti. Eastern Michigan's basketball team (top) has had a third straight outstanding season under Coach Jim Dutcher. The Hurons were good enough this year to earn a third straight post-season tournament bid. Ypsilanti High (bottom) has completed a second straight undefeated regular season. Coach Dick Ouellette's Braves have won 40 straight regular season games, the best record of any team in any class in Michigan.

Rock combo loses leader, But split hurts neither

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

"Blood, Sweat and Tears" is an album that succeeds as rock and succeeds as music and proves (as has been done before) that rock can succeed as music.

The LP has a lot going for it. It uses the change of pace that pop singers have long been bright enough to do—the uptempo tune after a dreamy ballad, etc.—to provide variety that maintains the listener's interest. Too many rock albums have had one track after another sounding a good deal alike.

On this one, versatility means primarily rock tracks and jazz tracks, with some blues. The musicians' performances are wonderful. Lew Soloff really knows how to play jazz trumpet. Dick Halligan on organ can go gracefully from a classical sound on "Variations on a Theme by Eric Satie" to jazz. Jim Fielder plays a delicate, warm bass. David Clyaton-Thomas' vocal on "God Bless the Child" is tender, honest and "now."

"Blood, Sweat and Tears," on Columbia, should appeal to both the quality rock fan and the person who'd like to buy his first rock album but has been holding off for fear of getting just "noise."

Blood, Sweat and Tears was founded during the summer of 1967 by four musicians, with organist Al Kooper becoming the best known of the group. He was on the first album, "Child Is Father to the Man," but before this second one he left.

Therefore, after seeing how splendidly Blood, Sweat and Tears are getting along, it's only natural to want to see how well Kooper is getting along.

Not bad. Kooper stayed with Columbia as artist and record producer. And he has out (in both capacities) the new "I Stand Alone" album and "The Live Adventures of Mike Bloomfield and Al Kooper," as a follow-up to their "Super Session" LP.

"I Stand Alone" doesn't stack up as well as "Live Adventures" does.

At first, "I Stand Alone" sounds more like run-of-the-mill rock, with crashes, fervent singing, a backup group and sturdy rhythm pounded out. Later, it seems to get better and grow on the listener, but not as wholeheartedly as one would like it to.

Recording was done in New York, Los Angeles and Nashville. Seven of the 12 songs are written by Kooper.

"The Live Adventures of Mike Bloomfield and Al Kooper" was recorded during three days last September at the Fillmore Auditorium in San Francisco.

Bloomfield, an influential, blues-based guitarist, formerly of the Electric Flag, made the "Super Session" album if a studio and before it was released Steve Sills added his music to it. So, they decided—for greater "reality"—to add a rhythm section and play together, live, in front of a paying audience and make a record out of that. Result is the two-LP set, "The Live Adventures."

Bloomfield sings for the first time on an album here and it's good. When he sings "I Wonder Who," the organ comes up around him, giving him support and custom cushioning like an air-filled chair.

One of their live adventures was Bloomfield's falling by the wayside because of accumulated insomnia. Tracks with the fill-in musicians are included on side three.

There are some soul satisfying blues on here. "Dear Mr. Fantasy" sounds like it could be a hit isngle. And we couldn't believe our ears on a live album when "The 59th Street Bridge Song" sounded like Kooper's vocal had been overdubbed. Searching through liner notes, we find that Paul Simon liked it so well that he went into the studio and sang along on the last verse. Well, who has a better right to feel groovy about an interpretation of that song? He wrote it.

Judy Garland and Ray Bolger are off to see "The Wizard of Oz" in a special NBC colorcast of the favorite fairy tale Sunday night at 7.

TV can, must be public service

ANN ARBOR — The average American growing up with television will spend about nine years of his lifetime watching the tube.

Ninety-five per cent of the 60 million American homes have television sets. These are turned on an average of six hours a day.

Television began as a public service, said Edward P. Morgan, chief correspondent for Public Broadcast Laboratory (PBL), but has become instead "a service of serving the public to advertisers."

Morgan, former World War II correspondent for the Chicago Daily News and associate editor of Collier's magazine, spoke this week at the University of Michigan, sponsored by the U-M journalism department.

Morgan said broadcasting — radio and television — today is serving the American people "junk."

"It can serve a lot of things aside from the sex and violence it is giving us," he said.

What is needed is a balance, he said.

"PBL is not out to destroy commercial television, but to provide viewing alternatives—balance," he said. "There is a sophisticated minority of the public which is hungry for more intellectual programmingf."

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) is not a regulatory agency, Morgan charged, but has become a tool of the broadcast industry. However, he added, it has shown some signs of life lately.

He lauded the FCC's recent suggestion that all cigarette advertising be banned from commercial airways, and a recent move by the FCC to force sale of a Boston television station because it had been owned by a corporation also owning a newspaper.

"'This is unprecedented in the FCC's history," Morgan said.

Pane hurts most

KALISPELL, Mont. (AP) — A burglary of Koford's Jewelry on Main Street resulted in the theft of only one item from the display.

Owner Ed Koford reported an antique wedding band valued at about $50 was taken. But the window the thief broke to enter the case cost more than $100 to replace.

Hollywood myths are Rarely based on fact

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jack Benny is stingy, Dean Martin is steadily stoned, and Barbara Stanwyck adores work. These legends seem a permanent part of the Hollywood landscape; like all legends, they aren't necessarily so.

Benny donates his talent and money to symphony orchestras and other causes. Dino himself admits he couldn't do all the things he does if he were permanently plastered.

And now, another legend is shot to pieces as Stanwyck confesses:

"There are some mornings when I feel like saying to hell with it and going back to sleep. Work—who needs it?"

Miss Stanwyck's feelings can be understood when she explains that for most weekday mornings from May to February for the past four years, she has been required to arise at 4:30 a.m., sometimes earlier if location scenes are required. Such are the conditions under which she has labored for the ABC series, "the Big Valley."

All that may or may not be over, according to the whim of the network moguls and their Madison Avenue customers. After four seasons, "The Big Valley," Miss Stanwyck admits, is in trouble.

"We've had a rough year," she said. "We had terrific competition and the ratings haven't been what they should be. There's talk that, if we are renewed, the show will be moved to an earlier time period.

"I hope so. History has proved that Westerns do better in earlier time periods. The only exception to that was 'Gunsmoke.' Then, when 'Gunsmoke' seemed at an end and it was canceled, the public protest was so great that it was revived and moved to an early evening time. And now it's as strong as it ever was."

Miss Stanwyck is hoping that "The Big Valley" will enjoy the same kind of rejuvenation.

"I'd like to see the show go five years," she remarked. "That's a nice, respectable length for a television show—in fact, it's getting to be rather rare. Naturally I like to be associated with a winner. I've had my experience with being a loser in television."

Hospital updates Sterile procedure

HONOLULU (AP) — The practice of disinfecting letters to prevent the spread of disease finally has been halted in Hawaii.

The fumigation of letters—by a formaldehyde mist—has been discontinued at the Kalaupapa leprosy settlement on Molokai Island and at the Hale Mohalu Hansen's Disease Hospital near Honolulu.

A spokesman for the state health department noted it "is nearly impossible to stop a practice like that (letter disinfection) once it is started. Nobody wants to be responsible for change, no matter how outdated something may be."

The halting of the practice in Hawaii came decades after the discovery of the leprosy bacillus by a Norwegian scientist and by the subsequent discovery that Hansen's disease can be transmitted only by skin-to-skin contact.

British actor ponders Problems of success

NEW YORK (AP) —Happy days are here for Tom Courtenay, a handsome young blue-eyed English actor

"But early success can hold you back for years," said Tom, who at 31 is already fortune's darling, hailed alike by both critics and producers as one of the most talented performers of his generation.

"You may get afraid of making a fool of yourself, and feel you have to win everytime. That can hurt you.

"Anything you try is a tremendous experience, and you learn from it. At the least you find out what you can't do—and that's worth knowing."

Courtenay has made only nine films—his latest is "Otley," a comedy thriller—but they include such highly praised ones as "The Loneliness of the Long-Distance Runner," "Doctor Zhivago," "Billy Liar," and "King and Country,"

Tom, who has a merry heart but an introspective mind. He is deeply grateful for the sacrifices his parents made to educate him.

"It makes me mad today when I see young people who have plenty of opportunities but instead use an excuse to become hoodlums.

Everybody loves a lover...

By JEFFREY ALDERMAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When the announcement of my forthcoming marriage appeared in the newspaper one Sunday recently, I didn't expect it to attract much attention.

The announcement is intended, I always thought, to inform one's friends and relatives and a few interested bystanders.

I expected some congratulatory notes, good wishes and handshakes. What came instead, mostly, was a salvo of warm good wishes from printing firms, insurance salesmen, limousine services, pastry shops, florists, catering services and other close friends like that. I began to feel like the sole pillar of the economy.

When I went to work the Monday following the announcement, for example, I received the following heart-warming phone call:

"Jeff Alderman?" said the caller in the most cheery tones.

"Yes," I replied.

"Charlie Dudley, Atlas Insurance here," he said, "Hey, congratulations, old man. Saw your announcement in the Times Sunday ..."

"Do I know you?" I asked.

"Say, Jeff, I'd like to talk to you about a few things you ought to consider now that you are planning ..."

"I've got plenty of insurance."

"Don't jump the gun, Jeff, old man," he said in an offended voice. "I'm not trying to pressure you into anything. Just thought we could have a talk ..."

"Don't call me, I'll call you. Bye now," I said and hung up.

When I visited my fiance that night, I complained about the annoying calls. She said nothing and pointed to a stack of mail on her kitchen table.

"You'll soon be a bride! I know how happy you must be planning your wedding, the most treasured event in every woman's life ... May I help with your wedding plans?

I was beginning to think that the only people who read the wedding announcements are insurance salesmen and merchants, when I got a letter from an old college friend who now works for a bank.

"Heartiest congratulations," he said. "Great news. Hope to meet the young lady soon."

I paused for a moment and reflected on the nice gesture this old friend was making. It made all crass phone calls and tasteless mail seem worth it. I continued reading.

"I imagine that you both are pretty excited about the wedding," he said. "I don't mean to jar you off Cloud 9, but there are things that you should be thinking about. Why don't we get together for lunch some day this week, and I can tell you about my bank's investment program. I would be glad to handle personally ..."

Reading forecast is cloudy

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — The prospects for good reading this spring are highly mixed. Forecast: cloudy.

The publishers' offerings include an important biography of Hemingway, another Civil War volume by Catton and novels by such figures as Malamud, Nabokov, Cheever and Vonnegut.

The rest of the season's crop of books appears to be catch-as-catch can.

The novels coming up in March include "Bullet Park" (Knopf) by John Cheever, who turns aside from the Wapshot theme to write about suburbia; Kurt Vonnegut's "Slaughterhouse Five" (Delacorte), which is concerned with the fire-bombing of Dresden in World War II, and a witchcraft type story by Fred Mustard Stewart, "The Mephisto Waltz," (Coward-Mc Cann).

April's fiction ncludes a novel by the specialist in gothic tales, Phyllis Whitney, who has written a story of twins in northern New Jersey titled "The Winter People" (Doubleday); Hortense Calisher's "The New Yorkers" (Little, Brown), and a comic novel by Davis Grubb, "Fools' Parade" (World).

Bernard Malamud's latest novel, scheduled for May, is titled "Pictures of Fidelman; an Exhibition" (Farrar, Straus). In the same month will be Vladimir Nabokov's "Ada" (McGraw-Hill), a childhood romance set in America, and Jerome Weidman's "The Center of the Action" (Random), a novel about a character who leaves the garment industry to enter the publishing field.

The personal record - biographies, autobiographies, memoirs and statements of belief —shows a wide diversity.

March will bring "The Poet and Her Book: a Biography of Edna St. Vincent Millay" by Jean Gould (Dodd, Mead); "Notebook of a year, 1967-1968" by poet Robert Lowell (Farrar, Straus); a biography of Sir Walter Raleigh titled "The Shepherd of the Ocean" (Gambit) by J.H. Adamson and H.F. Folland; a memoir by the art historian Sir Herbert Read, "The Cult of Sincerity" (Horizon), and the final work of Norman Thomas, "The Choices" (Ives-Washburn).

Carlos Baker's "Ernest Hemingway: a Life Story" (Scribners) will make its appearance in April.

In the same month will arrive "Friend of Man: the Life and Turbulent Times of H.G. Wells" by Lovat Dickinson (Atheneum); "The Bouviers: Portrait of an American Family" by John H. Davis (Farrar, Straus); the fourth volume of Leon Edel's biography of an American writer, "Henry James: the Treacherous Years, 1895-1901" (Lippincott); "The Heart and I" (MacMillan), an autobiography by the heart surgeon Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard, and historian Arnold Toynbee's "Experiences" (Oxford).

In May there will be humorist Harry Golden's autobiography, "The Time Is Right" (Putnam), and Robert Payne's "Mao Tsetung" (Weybright and Talley).

Politics and political history also are part of the spring fare, and the historians have come up with "Grant Takes Command" (Little, Brown) by Bruce Catton, a continuation of the Grant story, and a collection of essays by Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., "Ideas, Power and Violence in America" (Houghton, Mifflin).

Elsewhere in the nonfiction field there are items of topical and assorted interests.

The March items include John Gunther's study of the great metropolitan complexes, "Twelve Cities" (Harper). In April there will be a survey of space achievements, "Events in Space" (McKay) by Willy Ley, and in May, Haim G. Ginott, author of the best seller "Between Parent and Child," will bring out a volume devoted to another sector, "Between Parent and Teen-ager" (MacMillan).

Do as I say . . .

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — The letters sprang out in bold type from the program of a cancer therapy symposium at Livingstone Hospital: THIS IS A CANCER SYMPOSIUM, NO SMOKING.

Ernest Borgnine, Tony Curtis and Edric Connor watch spellbound a ritual ceremony in "The Vikings," a silverscreen epic to be presented Saturday night at 9 on channel 4.

"I'd give anything to be able to sleep that soundly."

Sit back and remember Your last 25c haircut...

by HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A good life is determined by the quality of its memories.

Pity that man whose memories haunt him with terror and regret instead of giving him abiding joy. If we have lived reasonably well, the recollection of the past should not hurt us too much but give us pleasure, as does a refreshing fountain.

One of the nicer things about memories is that sharing them does not diminish them—either in number or vividness. It enhances and restores them. And you've got a pretty happy collection yourself if you can look back and remember when—

The first big problem you faced when you awoke in the morning was trying to recall where you parked your wad of chewing gum the night before.

When a fellow told a funny story, just before he reached the punchline he'd snap his suspenders in anticipatory glee.

It was a real test of courage for a boy to bank the furnace on a wintry night, for he felt sure ghosts lurked among the flickering shadows of the darkened coal bin—ghosts that might follow him up the basement stairs and clutch at him from behind.

Everybody in the family went to see the same movies, regardless of whether he was under 16 or over 16.

As soon as a boy became strong enough to crank the car and set the engine to sputtering, he insisted he was a man and began demanding the right to wear long pants.

There appeared to be more restaurants run by Greeks than by Italians, but if you wanted to give your girl a real thrill you took her to a Chinese restaurant, where she could enjoy the mysterious delights of chop suey.

Practically every school in America had a huge steel engraving of George Washington standing up in the boat while crossing the Delaware.

Haircuts cost two-bits and if you gave the barber more than a nickel tip he knew you were from out of town.

The only things alive on the streets after midnight on week nights were the town watchman and a few stray days who kept him company on his rounds.

People thought neighbors were unfriendly if they bothered to lock their front doors when they went visiting for the evening.

A woman's reputation was suspect if she had a cigarette in her lips while hanging up her Monday wash in the back yard.

The education you got at a little red schoolhouse may not have been the best in the world, but at least it wasn't interrupted by student picketing.

People gossiped about any woman who wore a wig—or any man who tried to stay looking young by coloring his hair with walnut dye bought at the local drug store.

When you got a first-class letter with a 2-cent stamp on it, you knew it must contain something terribly secret or personal — otherwise the message would have come on the back of a penny pist card.

Form has a limit

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Large corporations usually receive mail in a post office drawer

Recently, one of the state departments in Montana had occasion to correspond with the Continental Oil Co., in Ponca City, Okla.

The secretary who addressed the letter obviously didn't quite understand the address. The letter she typed was addressed to Mr. P. O. Drawer.
